I Just Couldn't Leave Her In The Cold Dark Ground

By Drac Von Stoller

I Just Couldn't Resist

The Baron de Graff and his wife Dorabella lived in a beautiful castle in Scotland. The Baron de Graff and Dorabella were so in love and it showed at their lavish parties that were held in their ballroom. The Baron was a jealous husband that if any many should lay eyes on Dorabella in a way that made the Baron uncomfortable they would be brought down to the dungeon and punished and if that didn't teach them a lesson they would be put on the chopping block thus losing their head. Not many men dare test the jealous Baron because if they did Dorabella would be last woman they ever laid eyes on. Dorabella loved her husband dearly but with the Baron's jealous eyes made things hard on their marriage which made Dorabella resent her husband even more. The Baron would love to show off Dorabella's beauty at their parties and any guest that came to the castle. But the Baron's jealousy was about to come to a head because the Baroness had all she could take and Dorabella took a liking to one of her grounds keeper.

Dorabella's fling wit the groundskeeper would have grave consequences for the Baroness and the groundskeeper.
